The Encampment.

St. Louis, Sept. 27.—The [illegible] opened from the Lindell Hotel [illegible] of Illinois, [illegible] of the Grand Army of the Republic. [illegible] the weather for today [illegible] for the [illegible] Grand Marshal [illegible] Grand Army [illegible] Parchild, [illegible] Gen. Sherman, Vice President Randall, Hayden, war governors and other distinguished guests left the carriages and took their positions in the grand stand just east of the arch, across the street and facing the grand stand. Grand Marshal Grier and staff and officers of the encampment followed in carriages. Then came the veterans, marching by companies and regiments, with bands and fife and drum corps. The line was [illegible] of St. Louis, [illegible] and the Springfield, Mass. [illegible] were specially [illegible] to the commander-in-chief, who, followed a few paces behind, [illegible] to the crowds who greeted him with applause. His staff of one hundred men, [illegible] preceded twenty carriages containing three admirals, in which were [illegible] governors and other honored guests. In the lead was Colonel Dent, assistant marshal. Then came the [illegible]. California, New Hampshire, Vermont, Vermont, Maryland, Major Leo Rassieu, [illegible] Major E. F. Weigel, assistant marshal, [illegible] Iowa, Nebraska and Colorado, General John McNeil, assistant marshal, [illegible], Kansas. Col. John B. Gandolfo, assistant marshal, [illegible] Michigan, Minnesota, Delaware, West Virginia, Washington Territory and Kentucky, Col. Charles G. Smith, assistant marshal, [illegible] Arkansas, Florida, Gulf States, Dakota, Oregon, New Mexico, Montana, Rhode Island, [illegible], Connecticut, Idaho, Arizona, brigade of the Army of Tennessee, Corps of veterans, Cook County Zouaves, [illegible] assistant marshal.

It was a curious coincidence that Major [illegible] with Wm. Tell's apple on the point of his sword, and the [illegible] on the sides, should lead the parade of soldiers, for [illegible] were the old commander-in-chief, [illegible] and there marched [illegible] who [illegible] Regiment groups of men who will each from shelter to the carriage door to people's [illegible].

The [illegible] divisions of the Grand Army in detail, composed as follows: Fred Department, Missouri, Col. Nels Cole, assistant marshal in command, department of Illinois, Col. J. C. Bailey, assistant marshal, Ohio, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and Ohio, [illegible] Thomas C. Fletcher, assistant marshal, fourth, New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine, New Jersey, Virginia. A post stand with muskets of various corps, [illegible] the [illegible] of Lake. As the column passed [illegible] [illegible] glass transparency of General Grant on Pennsylvania [illegible] Lucas and Chestnut streets, [illegible] Grant's horse and [illegible] his [illegible].

The head of the procession reached the Grand Army [illegible] Chief Fairchild, Comm. Sherman, Vice President Randall, Governor

A Special Statement [illegible]

We have received Hoyt, Rand, McNally & Co.'s new map of Colorado. It is neatly bound in cloth and is sold for seventy-five cents. The map shows the new counties that were created by the last legislature. Maps published before the beginning of last year do not show accurately the counties of Colorado, and there was demand for a new map.

We published yesterday morning the amount of the assessment of the state of Colorado. It was $140,000,703 72. This is a increase of nearly $16,000,000 over the assessment of 1886. The Denver Republican says: "This increase comes largely from the agricultural counties." This is a little difficult to understand. Nearly all of the towns of the state had their real estate booms before the assessment was taken in May and hence the towns should have shown a very large increase.

The republicans of Massachusetts, while they differ with the democrats of that state upon almost every question of national importance are practically agreed upon one subject, and that is that the compulsory coinage of silver by the national government must cease. Their [illegible] are far from being in harmony with those of Mr Randall, who for the past few years stifled the abolition of all the internal revenue taxes. They recognized the fact that [illegible] manufacturers have shown great love for tariff by the present Congress in providing [illegible] carefully consider the tariff on sugar, and improve the administration of the customs laws.

Politicians are commencing [illegible] sing about the organization of the next senate. There is no reason for that. Mr Voorhees will be [illegible] chairman of the committee on finance, and the present majority will be over the [illegible] of Reps. The principal topic of discussion in the matter of the chairmanship of the committee on ways and means. The departure of Mr Morrison, last fall, who has [illegible]

Mr Carl Schurz has undertaken a [illegible] for the succession of the [illegible] to [illegible] of the Department of the Interior. Mr McKee, of Texas, was followed next in the committee after Mr Morrison is spoken for the place, but from that it seems it will be said to Hon Mr Cox of New York. Both of these gentlemen are full specially with the [illegible] and the assistance of either of them would be necessary to a secretary of the Treasury. Of the two however Mr Cox possesses [illegible] qualifications. He has served a number of terms in the house and has always taken a prominent part in every discussion on subjects of importance that came up. He [illegible] of both parties and Mr Cox is universally respected.

ALASKA AT A GLANCE.

What Is Known of the Territory Ceded to the United States.

Alaska, the territory ceded to the United States by Russia, has been the subject of much discussion since the transfer was made. Its boundaries are as follows: Commencing at the point of intersection of the one hundred and forty-first degree of west longitude with the shore of the Arctic ocean, the line runs southward through Behring's strait, midway between the islands of Kruzof and Sitkin, and through the middle of the channel which separates the chain of islands forming the archipelago of Alexander from the islands of Prince of Wales, Dall, Pitt, Admiralty, Baranof and Chichagof, to the parallel of fifty-four degrees forty minutes north latitude; thence northwesterly, through the middle of the channel which separates the islands of Prince of Wales and Kuprianof from the islands of Wrangell and Sitkin, to the point of intersection of the one hundred and thirty-second degree of west longitude; thence northward to the point of intersection of the one hundred and thirty-fourth degree of west longitude with the parallel of fifty-eight degrees fifty minutes north latitude; thence northwesterly to the point of intersection of the one hundred and thirty-fifth degree of west longitude with the parallel of sixty degrees north latitude; thence westward, along the parallel of sixty degrees north latitude, to the point of intersection of the one hundred and sixty-fifth degree of west longitude; thence northwesterly to the point of intersection of the parallel of sixty-five degrees thirty minutes north latitude with the one hundred and sixty-eighth degree of west longitude; thence northward to the point of intersection of the one hundred and sixty-eighth degree of west longitude with the shore of the Arctic ocean; thence eastward, along the shore of the Arctic ocean, to the point of beginning.

The Seward region extends from the Behring sea to the Arctic ocean, and is bounded on the east by the Colville river. The Seward region is the most northerly of the three districts into which the territory is divided. The Yukon region lies between the Seward region and the Kuskokwim region, and is bounded on the east by the Tanana river. The Kuskokwim region lies between the Yukon region and the Alaska peninsula, and is bounded on the east by the Copper river. The Alaska peninsula region includes the Alaska peninsula and the Aleutian islands. The Sitkan region extends from the Alaska peninsula region to the boundary line between Alaska and British Columbia, and is bounded on the east by the Portland canal. The Sitkan region includes the Kenai peninsula, Prince William sound, Cook's inlet, Kadiak island, Chugach bay, Copper river, Yakutat bay, Lituya bay, Cross sound, Icy bay, Port Mulgrave, Sitka, Chilkat, Chilkoot, Dyea, Taku inlet, Stikine river, Wrangell, Kupreanof island, Kuprianof island, Baranof island, Chichagof island, Admiralty island, Prince of Wales island, Dall island, Pitt island, Kruzof island, Sitkin island, Behring's strait, Behring sea, Arctic ocean, Kotzebue sound, Kowak river, Kobuk river, Selawik lake, Selawik river, Hotham inlet, Norton sound, Golovin bay, Port Clarence, Kotzebue bay, Kotzebue inlet, Kowak bay, Kowak inlet, Kobuk bay, Kobuk inlet, Selawik bay, Selawik inlet, Shesh bay, Shesh inlet
